Annual Index

Volume 12/1980

VOL.
12
1980

Authors

Allegrante, J. P., Mortimer, R. G., and O'Rourke, T. W. Social-psychological factors in motorcycle safety helmet use: Implications for public policy. 12(3):115–126.

Ayoub, M. A., and Kushner, D. J. A computerized safety management information system for state OSHA inspection and enforcement programs. 12(1):21–35.

Bahniuk, E., and Ettlinger, C. A method for the testing and analysis of alpine ski bindings. 12(1):4–12.

Cook, W. I. Mathematical models of head injury: A ranking experiment. 12(3):127–137.

Daniels, E. B., and Drury, C. G. Predicting bicycle riding performance under controlled conditions. 12(2):86–95.

Drury, C. G., and Daniels, E. B. Predicting bicycle riding performance under controlled conditions. 12(2):86–95.

Ettlinger, C., and Bahniuk, E. A method for the testing and analysis of alpine ski bindings. 12(1):4–12.

Edwards, D. S., and Hahn, C. P. A chance to happen. 12(2):59–67.

Fuchs, C. Wisconsin driver improvement program: A treatment-control evaluation. 12(3):107–114.

Graham, K. J., and Kinney, G. F. A practical safety analysis system for hazards control. 12(1):13–20.

Hahn, C. P., and Edwards, D. S. A chance to happen. 12(2):59–67.

Haight, F. A. Traffic safety in developing countries. 12(2):50–58.

Kelsey, S., Peck, R., Ratz, M., and Sherman, B. The effectiveness of accredited traffic violator schools in reducing accidents and violations. 12(2):68–77.

Kinney, G. F., and Graham, K. J. A practical safety analysis system for hazards control. 12(1):13–20.

Kushner, K. J., and Ayoub, M. A. A computerized safety management information system for state OSHA inspection and enforcement programs. 12(1):21–35.

Langley, J. D., Silva, P. A., and Williams, S. M. Motor coordination and childhood accidents. 12(4):175–178.

Leuder, R. K., and Price, D. L. Virginia union and industry management attitudes toward safety and OSHA. 12(3):99–106.

Mital, A. Task variables in manual materials handling. 12(4):163–173.

Mortimer, R. G., Allegrante, J. P., and O'Rourke, T. W. Social-psychological factors in motorcycle safety helmet use: Implications for public policy. 12(3):115–126.

O'Rourke, T. W., Allegrante, J. P., and Mortimer, R. G. Social-psychological factors in motorcycle safety helmet use: Implications for public policy. 12(3):115–126.

Peck, R., Kelsey, S., Ratz, M., and Sherman, B. The effectiveness of accredited traffic violator schools in reducing accidents and violations. 12(2):68–77.

Price, D. L., and Lueder, R. K. Virginia union and industry management attitudes toward safety and OSHA. 12(3):99–106.

Ratz, M., Peck, R., Kelsey, S., and Sherman, B. The effectiveness of accredited traffic violator schools in reducing accidents and violations. 12(2):68–77.

Reichle, M. N. Development of an instrument to measure knowledge in recreational boating safety. 12(4):157–162.

Sherman, B., Peck, R., Kelsey, S., and Ratz, M. The effectiveness of accredited traffic violator schools in reducing accidents and violations. 12(2):68–77.

Silva, P. A., Langley, J. D., and Williams, S. M. Motor coordination and childhood accidents. 12(4):175–178.

Simpson, H. M., and Warren, R. A. Exposure and alcohol in the fatal nighttime collisions of men and women drivers. 12(4):151–156.

Stinson, J. F., and Wilde, G. J. S. Injuries in locomotive cabs. 12(4):179–184.

Warren, R. A., and Simpson, H. M. Exposure and alcohol in the fatal nighttime collisions of men and women drivers. 12(4):151–156.
Wilde, G. J. S., and Stinson, J. F. Injuries in locomotive cabs. 12(4):179–184.
Williams, S. M., Langley, J. D., and Silva, P. A. Motor coordination and childhood accidents. 12(4):175–178.
Willson, V. L. Estimating changes in accident statistics due to reporting requirement changes. 12(1):36–42.

Titles

A chance to happen. D. S. Edwards and C. P. Hahn. 12(2):59–67.
A computerized safety management information system for state OSHA inspection and enforcement programs. M. A. Ayoub and K. J. Kushner. 12(1):21–35.
Development of an instrument to measure knowledge in recreational boating safety. M. N. Reichle. 12(4):157–162.
The effectiveness of accredited traffic violator schools in reducing accidents and violations. R. Peck, S. Kelsey, M. Ratz, and B. Sherman. 12(2):68–77.
Estimating changes in accident statistics due to reporting requirement changes. V. L. Willson. 12(1):36–42.
Exposure and alcohol as risk factors in the fatal nighttime collisions of men and women drivers. R. A. Warren and H. M. Simpson. 12(4):151–156.
Injuries in locomotive cabs. G. J. S. Wilde and J. F. Stinson. 12(4):179–184.
Mathematical models of head injury: A ranking experiment. W. I. Cook. 12(3):127–137.
A method for the testing and analysis of alpine ski bindings. C. Ettinger and E. Bahniuk. 12(1):4–12.
Motor coordination and childhood accidents. J. D. Langley, P. A. Silva, and S. M. Williams. 12(4):175–178.
A practical safety analysis system for hazards control. K. J. Graham and G. F. Kinney. 12(1):13–20.
Predicting bicycle riding performance under controlled conditions. C. G. Drury and E. B. Daniels. 12(2):86–95.
Social-psychological factors in motorcycle safety helmet use: Implications for public policy. J. P. Allegrante, R. G. Mortimer, and T. W. O'Rourke. 12(3):115–126.
Task variables in manual materials handling. A. Mital. 12(4):163–173.
Traffic safety in developing countries. F. A. Haight. 12(2):50–58.
Virginia union and industry management attitudes toward safety and OSHA. D. L. Price and R. K. Lueder. 12(3):99–106.
Wisconsin driver improvement program: A treatment-control evaluation. C. Fuchs. 12(3):107–114.

VOL.
12
1980